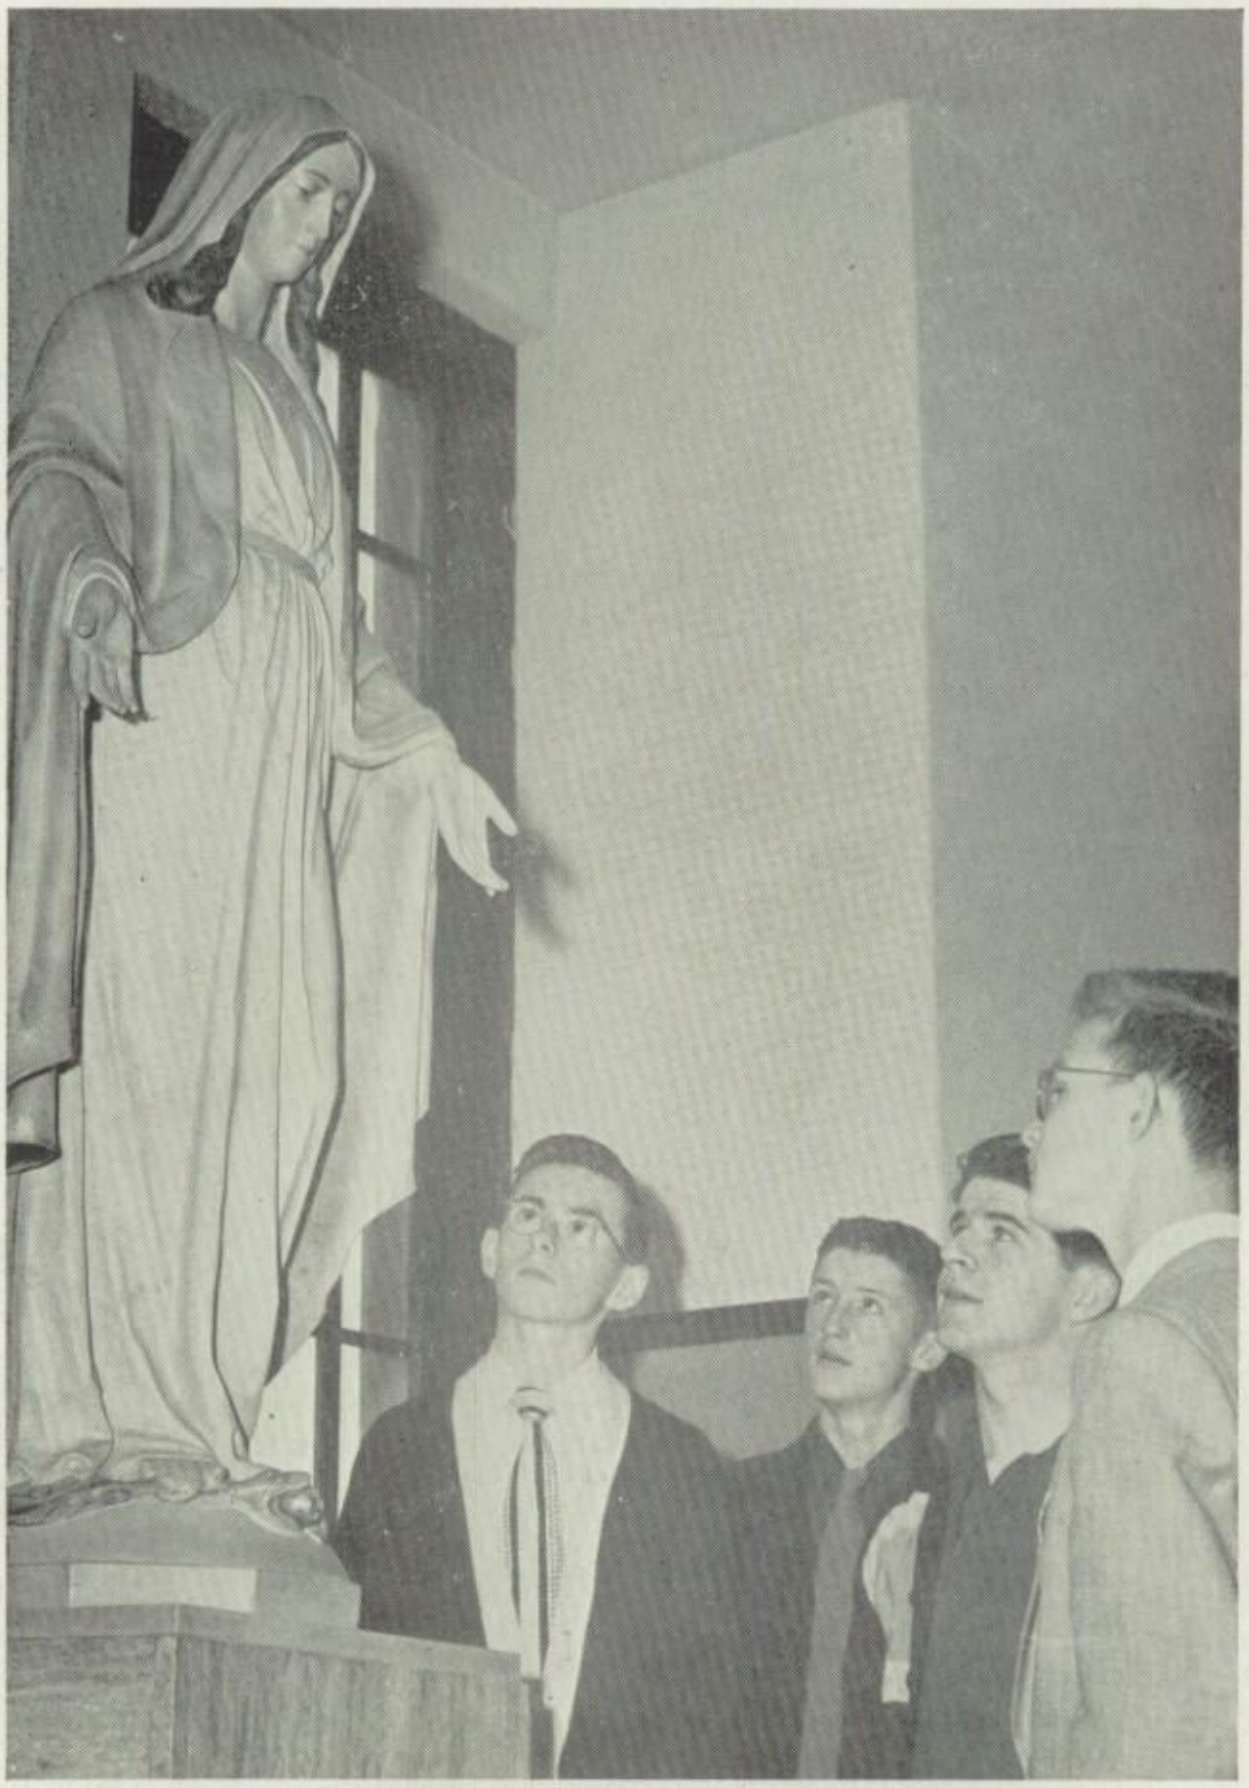
Declared A Dogma

OUR Lady's Feast of the Assumption was officially declared a dogma on November 1, 1950, by Pope Pius XII. While this new article of faith was a cause of joy to Catholics throughout the world, we were especially happy because our school is dedicated to Our Lady.



Hail Mary. Malden Catholic's devotion to Our Patroness is sincere and filial. The reverential gazes of Billy McCarthy, Jack Marnon, Ted O'Donnell and Jim Corcoran are symbolic of our love.

DEDICATED to two Silver Jubilarians who not only showed us the right way but helped us over many a rough stretch.

Twenty-five years. Brother Aubertus (left) now headmaster of John Bapst High School, Bangor, Maine, returned to Malden Catholic where he labored for the past several years to attend a jubilee dinner in honor of him and Brother Alexius Joseph, another long-time teacher at Malden Catholic.

In Religion where we learned

God's Blessings. The school year officially opened with the Mass of the Holy Ghost celebrated by Monsignor Fletcher.

After having seen or heard the recent Senate Crime Hearing, one realizes the importance of religious instruction in a school's curriculum. This foremost "R" at Malden Catholic includes a daily recitation period as well as the attendance at Mass, the receiving of Communion on special occasions and also the annual four-day retreat.

Religion is the core of the daily schedule. The student cannot but realize that his primary end in life is his own personal salvation through the observance and practices of his Faith. He learns that religion is not just a Sunday affair, but that it is a daily duty In short a Malden Catholic man learns to live his religion.

Practice. Attendance at Mass and the reception of Communion during the annual retreat is the fruit of the class work.

What, no lessons? Pat Sweeney, Paul Concannon, Dick Spencer, Joe Hurley and Jim Kerrigan consider the annual retreat schedule. At this time lessons are put aside so that full attention may be given to the spiritual progress of the students.

Master of Ceremonies. Genial but forceful Father O'Neill of the Passionist Fathers was this year's retreatmaster. His talks were practicable and enjoyable, and the students derived much benefit from his four-day series.

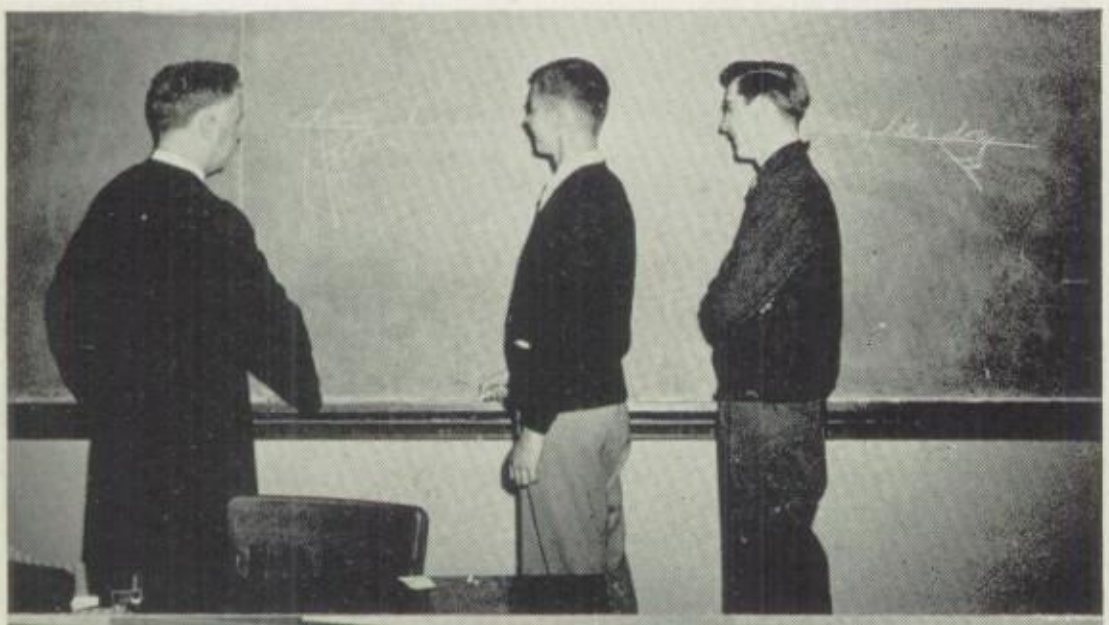
Take your choice. The Sodality's supply of pamphlets provided everyone with a variety of spiritual reading for retreat.

The Blessing of the Lord. Each retreat day closed with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by retreatmaster Father O'Neil.

Other travel aids were: Reading . . .

Carrying six subjects a year in a college course gives the scholars plenty of the traditional three "R's" as they pursue their way through the deeds of Caesar, Cicero and the poetry of Virgil. They relive the course of the world in their social studies. Very few have a good word to say for Descartes, Pythagoras, Euclid, Newton, Faraday, Priestly and Lavoisier as they work the problems of math and science. French is their required modern language. And "Who Said That" can be very amusing on T. V. but not in a literature test.

Two weeks. Just about a week before the monthly book reviews are due Mr. O'Neill has a busy time of it. Larry Miller chose a thin edition for his masterpiece.

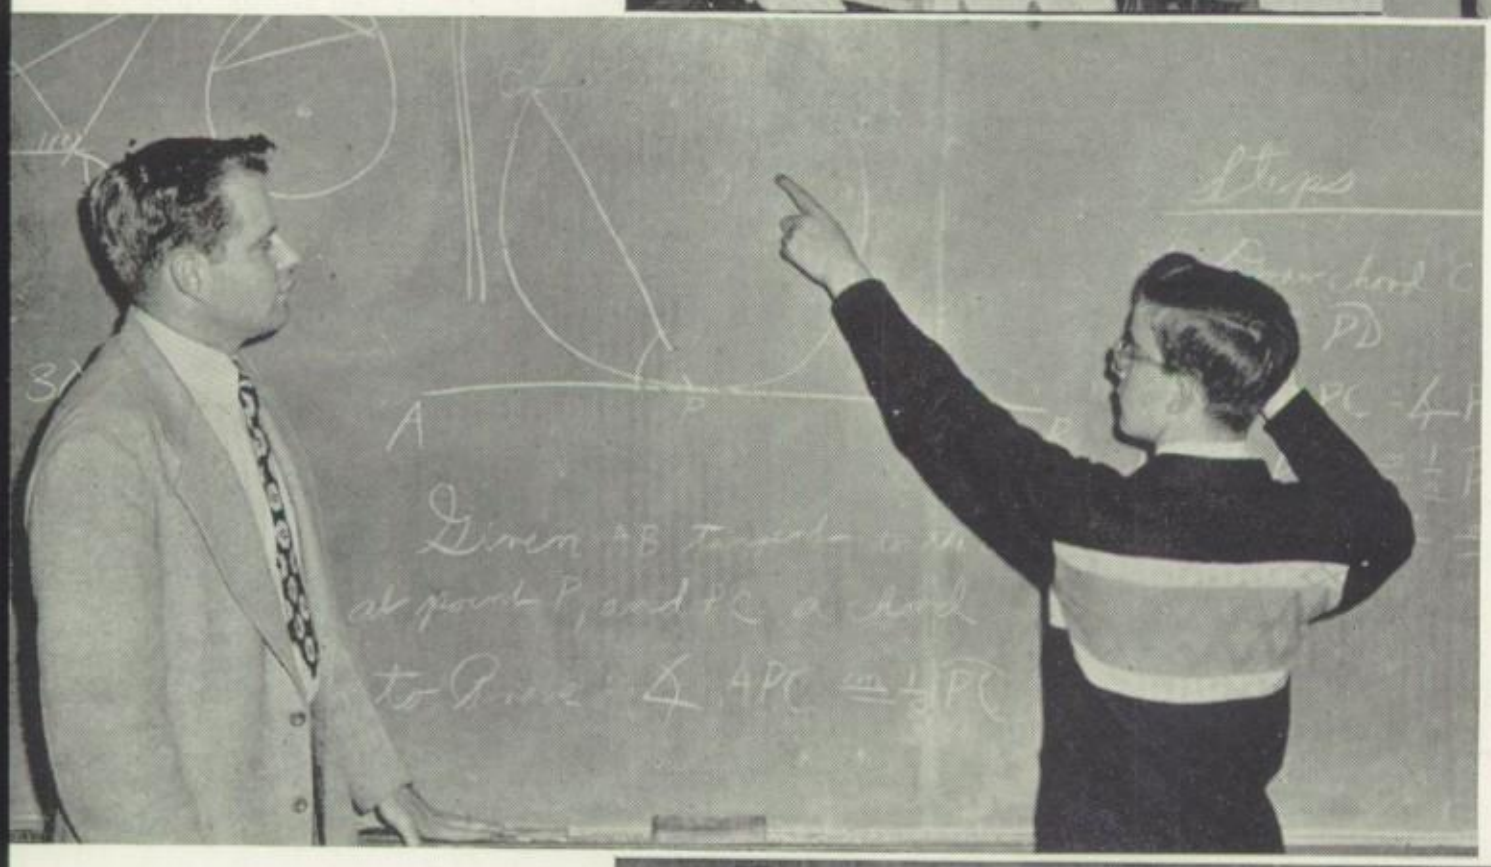


Very good. Brother Michael gives the okay to the diagrams of Bill Larkin and George McCarthy in Freshman English.

You can't win. Three C'ers in action during an exam seem to be doing just fine. Yes — until they get their papers back.

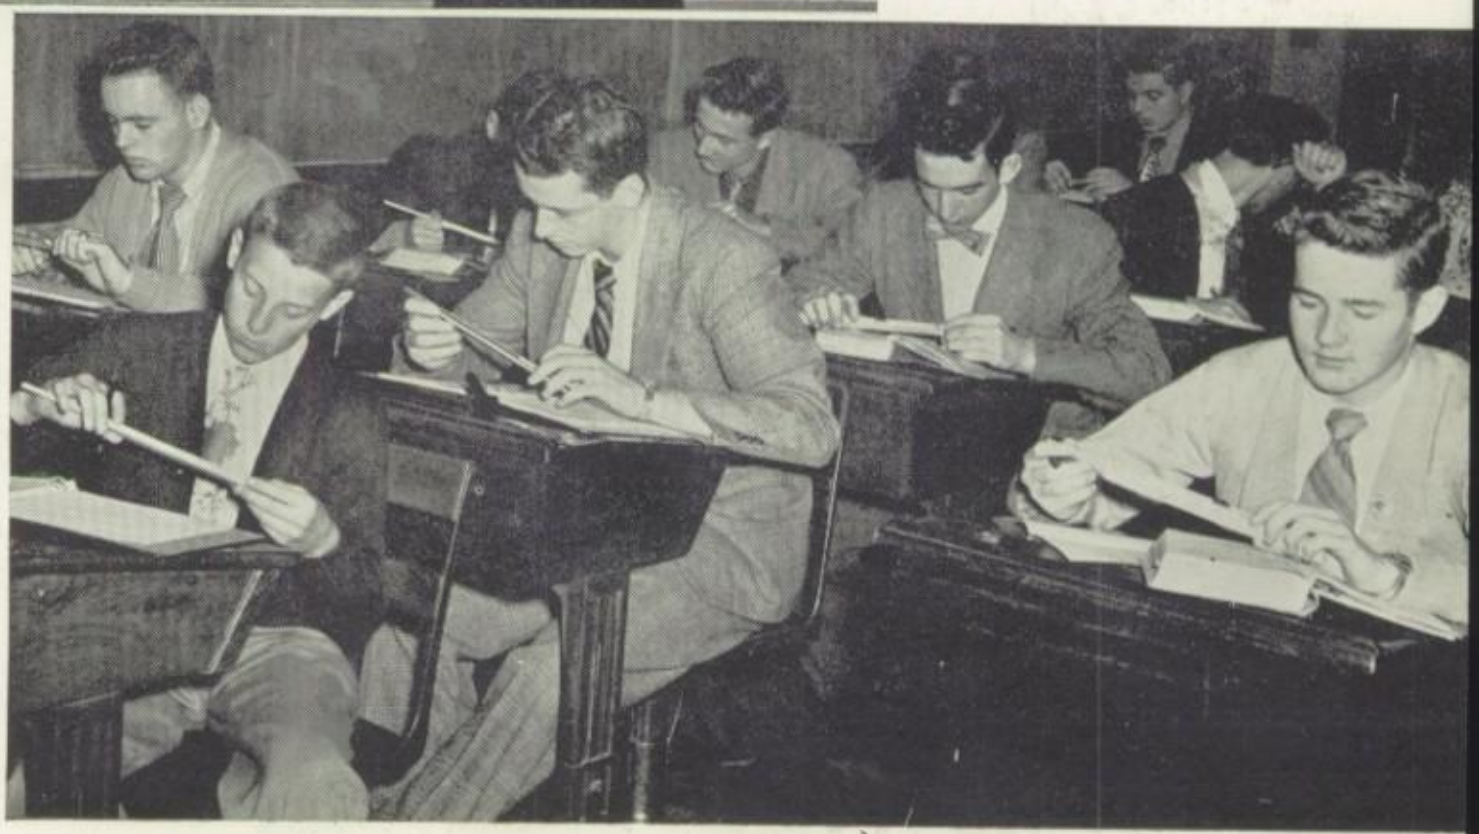
'Rithmetic of all kinds . . .

Simple stuff. For experts such as T. Kelley, J. Duffy, R. Newton, J. Mooney, G. Kelly, and J. Devine, respectively, trig and solid were just a breeze.



Step by step. Dick Bourque proves his point to Mr. Coleman in plane geometry.

A. B. C.'s. The slide rule with its alphabetical scales is an appreciated tool in the hands of serious mathematicians. Recognizable scholars above are Kiley, Calder, Bartlett, Eveleth, Duffy, Vella and McIntyre.



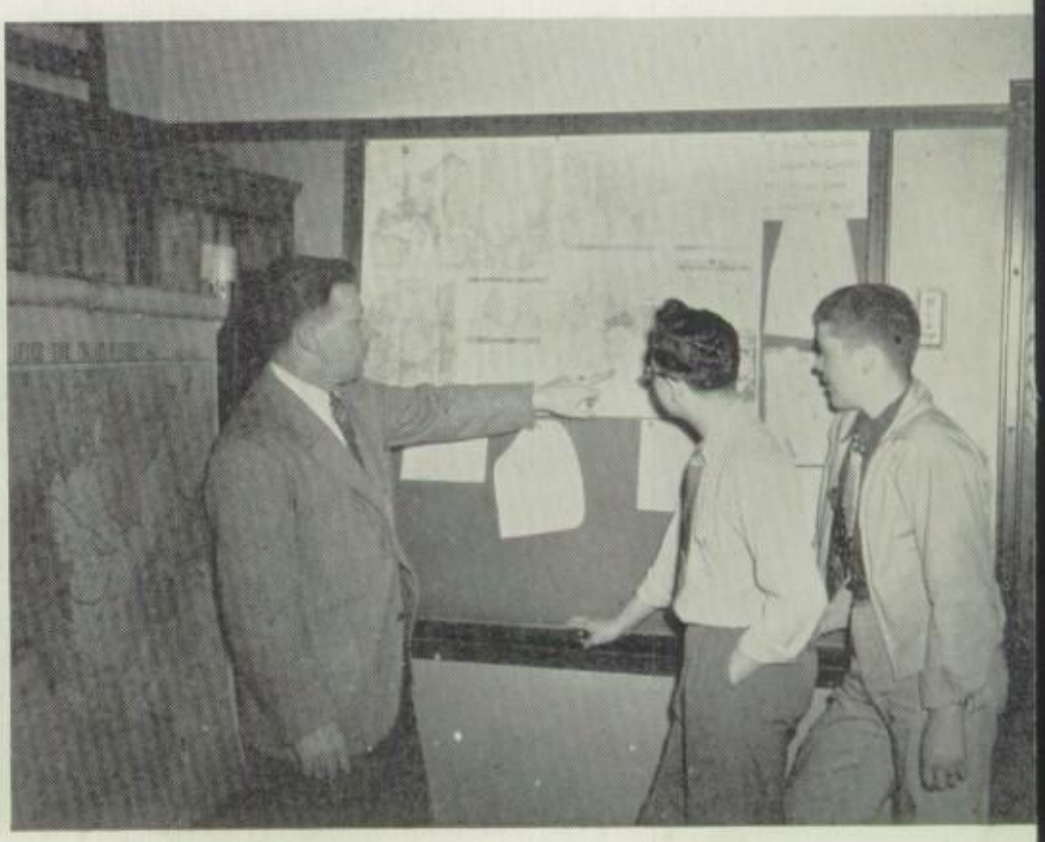
the Languages . . .

Mirabile visu. Latin is never a dead language when Brother Alexius Joseph is the teacher. Buckley and Hackett smile as Brother explains the "five-minute" home assignment.

Bien. French comes easy to the savants in Brother Simeon's class. Holmes wants to show that he knows as much as Kilroy and Anderson while Early and Dunn give full attention.

Social Studies . . .

Number Eight. Dave Anderson knows the next answer in Mr. Duffy's sociology review quiz.



38th Parallel. Tom Maher and Jim Collins get an explanation of the Korean situation from Mr. Buckley, in world history.

and the Sciences.

What's cooking? The smiles of Woods and Norton indicate that Brother Quentin could be generating nitrous oxide, laughing gas.

Weaklings. Air pressure on the Magdeburg hemispheres is greater than that exerted by Kerrigan, Cullen and Joe Hurley or even sixteen horses.

Daughan's early light. Interested general science students crowd around Daughan as he explains his problem on the cost of electricity.

Now hear this. The Navy's audio-visual aid exhibit paid a visit to M. C. under the direction of Sailor Bernie Smythe. On the far right may be seen Father O'Leary and Miss Duggan of the Archdiocesan Educational office.

With time out for these pleasant pauses

THE GREAT MAJORITY

Freshman activity was more than purely physical. The class of 1954 was most active in the extra-curricular program. As a group the freshmen were the top ad and patron getters for the play program. They won honors in the talent show, the poster contest, and oratorical contest. In addition to this freshmen belonged to the Hi-Lite, Vagabonds, Hi-Liters and the poster and camera clubs. Successful J. V. teams in football, basketball and baseball had numerous freshmen in the key spots.

With one year's experience to its credit the class of 1953 made itself known in a big way. Sophomores dominated the championship hockey team with seven regulars. They were also the keymen in basketball and baseball. A sophomore held the presidency of the Camera Club. Second year men were extremely active in the orchestra, paper, Vagabonds, and Poster Club. In other words the Class of 1953 became the key class for a majority of the post-school activities.

Mid-day munchings. DiMasse, Bailey, Doherty, Foley, Bowen, Conley, Welch, Toomey, Cavallo and Barry waste no time in stocking up at the lunch period.

The rulers to be who form the class of 1952 also had their signal honors. A junior won the school oratorical contest. Juniors backboned the orchestra, paper, and shared equal honors with the seniors in football and debating. Three "C" broke all homeroom records in bringing in ads and patrons for the program. Quality rather than quantity was their trade mark in most things. Two juniors were chosen as All-Catholic in football and hockey, to cite an example of quality. However, when quantity counted, they were there as is the case of their subscribing one hundred percent to the 1951 Hi-Way.

WEST SIDE A. A.

A salute to the West Side A. A. for taking care of the financial side of athletics at M. C. During its sixteen years the club has spent about $16,000 annually in the providing of a field, clubhouse, coaches, equipment and collegiate scholarships. Very little of this money has been paid out for labor as the members also do the most of the work. In addition to this the members also raise the greater part of this annual expenditure through their own time and efforts. The unselfish spirit of the Club has been the key to the athletic successes of the school teams.

Backer-uppers. Seated: President Barry, Vice-president Doherty, Treasurer Rice and Secretary McBride. Standing: Brother John Edward, John Hughes, Doctor Bennett, John Shea, Louis Blais, Thomas Gilligan and Brother Marshal.

Raise the roof. Major games were preceded with a student rally in Columbus Hall. The Vagabonds supplied the music, Brother Evangelus M. C.'ed the event, and the students yelled themselves hoarse as they cheered and sang.

Cheer, cheer! Whenever the cheerleaders called for a cheer or the Vagabonds started a song, the cheering section augmented by the girls' school gave out with deafening blasts. If the leaders or band were slow in starting, the students carried on without them. What a gang these loyal rooters are.

Count off. Pep for a crucial game called for a parade from the school to the field. Batonner Boudreau blazed the way for the Vagabonds and student body who warmed up with cheers and songs as they marched along.

There were times

That "all good things must come to an end" proved true as M. C.'s monopoly was broken for the first time in the league after amassing a string of fifteen consecutive titles. Injuries suffered in the Everett game proved the turning point. Even in defeat, Malden Catholic displayed tremendous spirit. Senior co-captains Norton and Malatesta were the steadying powers for this green team.

Catholic High opened the season with a scoreless tie against a favorite Medford High. Non-veterans Hallice and Pallotta did well in the line. All-Catholic Dan Hurley played his usual fine game. Quarterback Grant kept the team in the game with his daring work in the quarterback slot.

Travelling to Springfield, M. C. pinned a 21-12 defeat on Cathedral with first half touchdowns by Norton, Malatesta and Mallon. They hung on desperately in the second half while an aroused Cathedral scored twelve points.

At New Bedford the team was held scoreless in the first half but clicked to a 20-0 victory in the second-half with Grant throwing to Gerety, Wilkins and Pallotta for three scores. Mallon and Norton put on fancy running exhibitions for good gains. The defensive play of Norton kept New Bedford from scoring on several occasions.

Keith came in to town joyously confident but left utterly downhearted on the short end of 20-6.

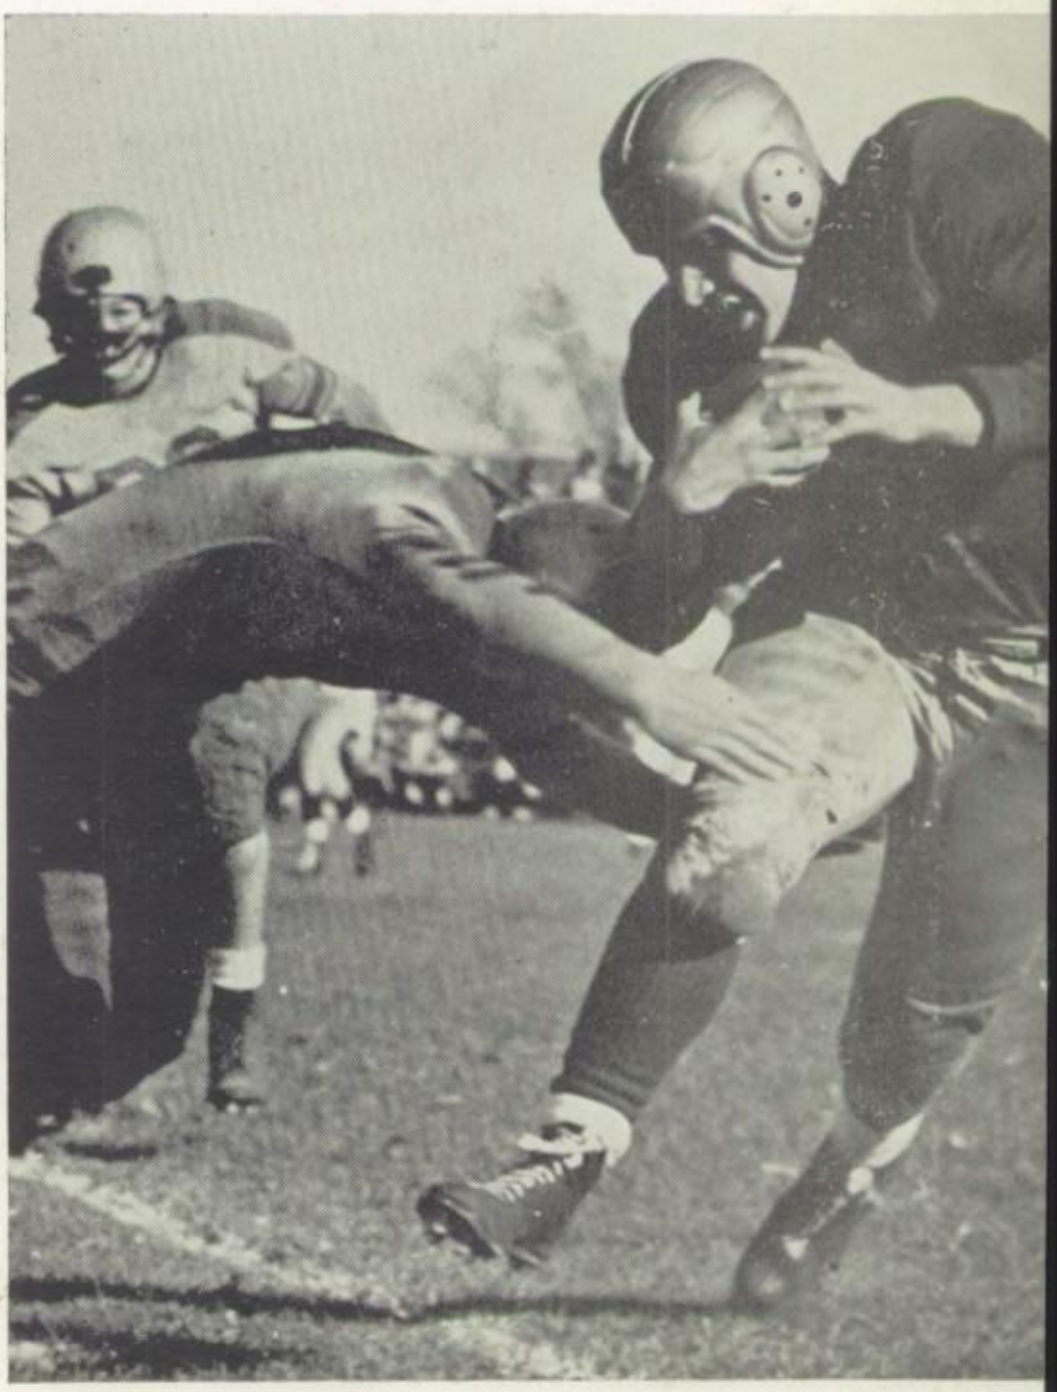
Grant, Norton and Malatesta were the big guns in the victory over Rindge. Hallice, Hurley and Sheehan in the line smothered Rindge's famous running attack.

Everett humbled weakened M. C. 32-0. It was not only the worst defeat ever experienced by a Malden Catholic team, but also the worst physical beating that a Catholic High team ever suffered.

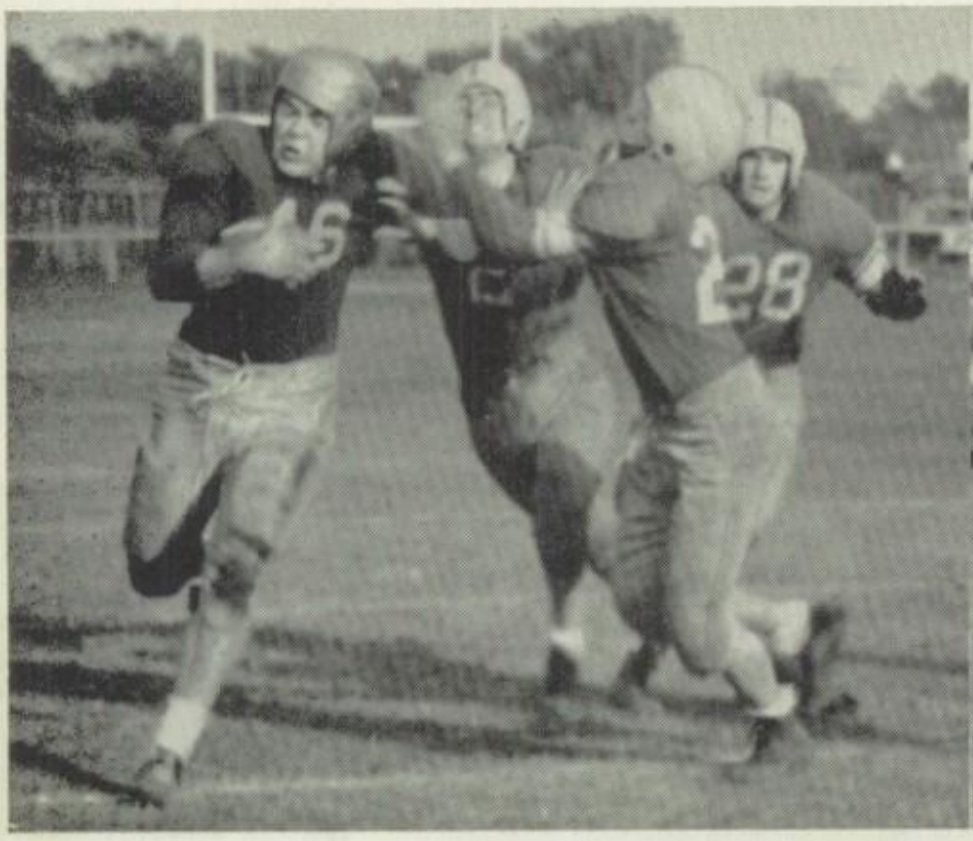
Greatly weakened by the loss of five regulars in the Everett game, the team lost to the Prep in a seasaw battle at Danvers by 20 - 12.

Undefeated Lawrence Catholic handed a spirited and determined M. C. team a 12 - 7 loss and with it went the league championship. Forty minute Norton was the player of the game.

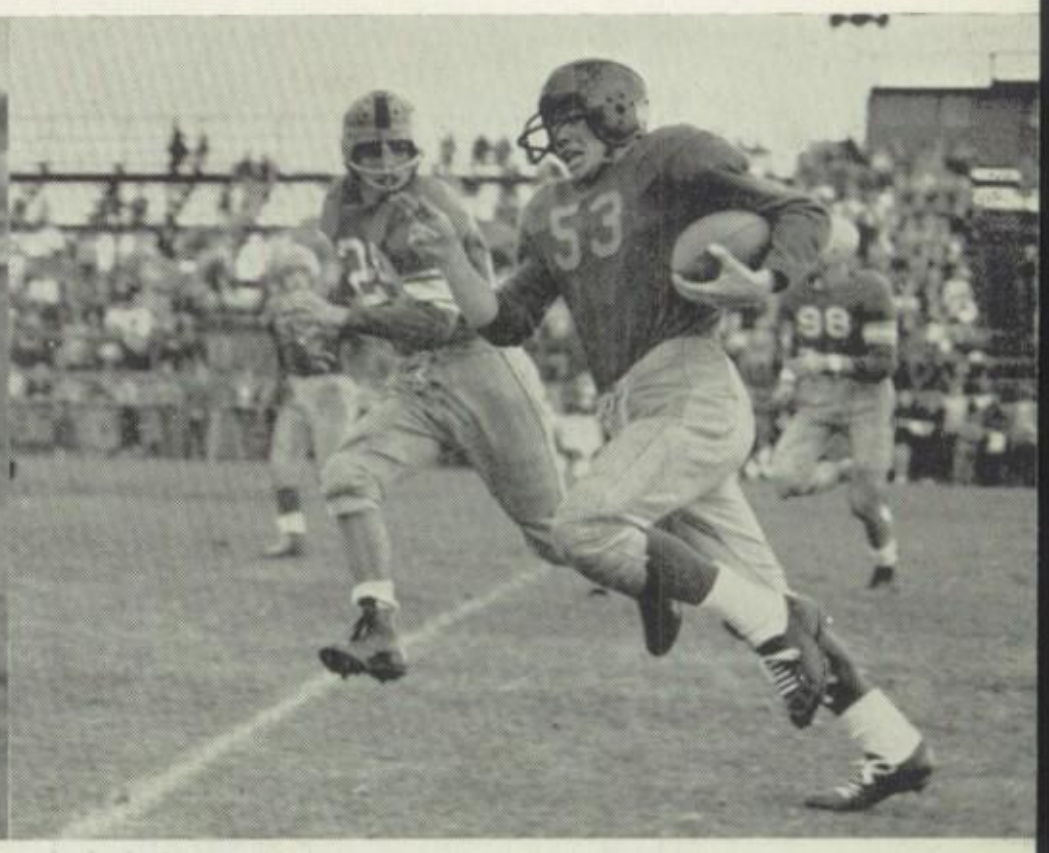
The team rebounded against a weak St. Mary's of Lynn team for a 44 - 0 victory but played a listless tie with St. Clement's to end the season.



Straight-arm him, Tony. End Pallotta didn't go far as he whirled around after catching a short one from Grant in the Keith game.



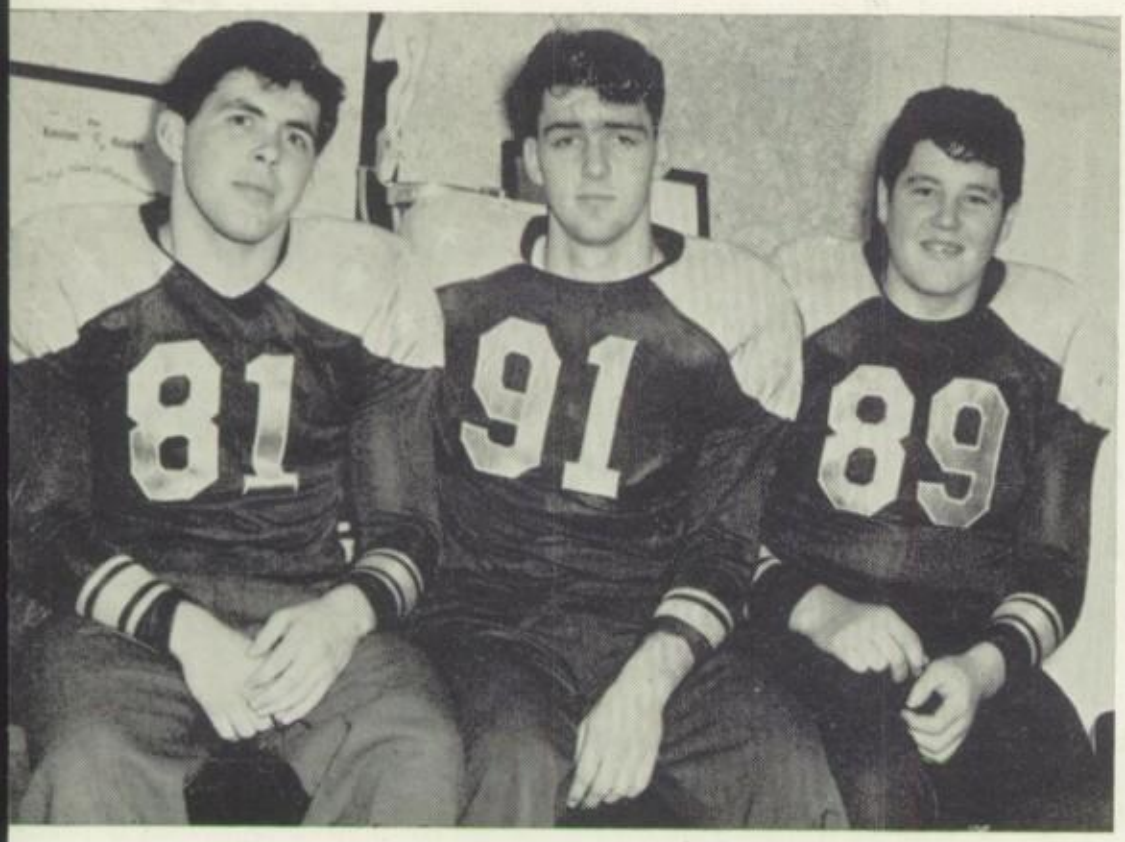
Atta boy Ed. Captain Ed is again being run out of bounds. It was the only way opponents could stop him. This is a New Bedford shot.



Nice going Red. Mallon was always good for better than ten yards on a run to his right or left as seen in another New Bedford pic.

And the distance

Shifty swifty. Dick Wilkins gained a few yards before he got creamed in the St. Clement's game. Malatesta and Rucci are the other M. C. players.



Three of a kind. Ed Norton, Dan Hurley and Kieran Sheehan were selected as Catholic All-Stars and they deserved it. They proved their worth on the defensive team in a shut-out victory in the annual charity game with the Boston All-Stars at White Stadium.

Our floundered

Three victories for the season is not a boastful record for the basketeers. They had three experienced players to rely on in October but co-captain Chet Hallice, a 6-4 pivot man, came up with an injury in football and was not able to play until the end of the season. As a consequence co-captain Paul Monahan and Jimmy Clark carried the fight to mid-court as frontmen, but from there to the basket was the problem.

Coach Bane had the big backmen but they were inexperienced and found the going tough. They did their best and gained savvy on the offense and defense as the season went along but they were never able to click as a unit.

floormen frequently . . .

Such a record does not do justice to the efforts of these boys but the way McCullough, Coaes, Mead and Sheehan progressed from game to game is truly remarkable. McCullough advanced so rapidly that he ended up as one of the top point-getters for the season. J. Clark was the high scorer.

Coach Bane loses only his two co-captains by graduation, but he has Dempsey, Canniff and O'Connor to choose from to fill Monahan's position and four experienced backmen to fill in the three back spots. Hence, he and the team have every reason to expect a better season for next year.

Hooked twice. McCullough was hooked on the rebound and also when the ref missed it.

Easy does it. Sparkplug Monahan makes with the face in trying to outmaneuver a husky Keith boy. Bill Sellers is in the background for a possible pass.

And still champions

As he had only two veterans on his young club, Coach Kenty felt that his team was not experienced enough to win the title but was fast enough to cause trouble.

Trouble it did cause by winning the first round and also the play-off game with Our Lady's, the second round winner, for Malden Catholic's seventh straight title.

The icemen were warm and cold in early games but were hot in the closing league games and even hotter in the State Tournament in which they licked both Boston and Cambridge Latin before losing to Natick in the finals.

In the New England Tournament the Blueblades lost to St. Dominic's of Maine in the opening game to end a very thrilling and gruelling season. A season made so remarkable by the all out work of Coach Bert Kenty, Captain Bobby McKinnon, Dick Grant, Paul Smith, Dan Goggin, Richie Cavanaugh, Ernie LeDuc, Mike Manning, Rod Gorman, and Billy McDonnell.

Defensive duo. Goggin goes from defense to offense as he clears a Billy McDonnell save.

Slapstick. Driving the puck by the goalie can be a muscleman's job at times, as Dick Grant will testify in this shot.

Lamplighter. M. C.'s captain and highscorer Bobby McKinnon tried to make Central see red as he attempted to score from the crease.

Good and bad. St. Clement's goalie made a good save which was bad for M. C.'s Paul Smith who did stellar work on defense.

Rocket — 9. Rocket Cavanaugh rifled a hot one from the blue line as he tried to cage a point for M. C.

Lobster on ice. It was easy pickings for McKinnon as he scored on a solo after faking Our Lady's goalie into a crustacean pose.

Cool Customers. Cambridge Latin's goalie went into a sit-down to put a slow-down on Gorman in the semi-finals of the State.

New records were established in track this year. There was a big increase in the squads' numbers and, as a consequence, the indoor and outdoor teams were able to each score a team victory. Last year these same teams were winless.

Cross-county had a recorrd of two wins and five losses for the best achievement.

Both Brother Valens in cross-country and Brother Marshal in the other two put the blame on insufficient numbers. This is borne out by the excellent work of those who make up the teams which were too undermanned to score team victories.

Linehan, Sheedy, Mozzicato, Phillips and Gordon starred on all three teams. Indoor and outdoor stars were Wilkins, Mallon, Curry, Fusco, Allard, McGonagle and Martin.

Being a young club, the baseball team suffered from a porous infield, which in spite of frequent line-up changes plagued the team in every game. Yet, the season ended with a record of five victories and eleven defeats.

The pitching of Gorman, Goggin, Dempsey and Coates, all sophomores, was excellent. With support bunts and batted balls which never left the grass of the infield would not have gone as hits.

The team was also strong in batting with .300 hitters in co-captains Malatesta and Pallotta, Dempsey and LeDuc. Only the co-captains were seniors and Coach Doherty feels that the experience gained this year by the youngsters will make a strong club for next year.

Tennis was added experimentally to the spring sports program in order to discover if there was sufficient enthusiasm to make it a regularly scheduled activity for next spring. Enough candidates answered the call to warrant its inauguration in 1952. In fact, a team was hastily chosen to represent the school in the State Tournament.

Captain Greg Lynch hopefully led his squad of Antell, Coughlin, Bartlett and Hadley to battle. However, first round scores — top draw secrets — proved that the competition was too stiff for this gallant group which suffered from the lack of practice.

Points of Interest

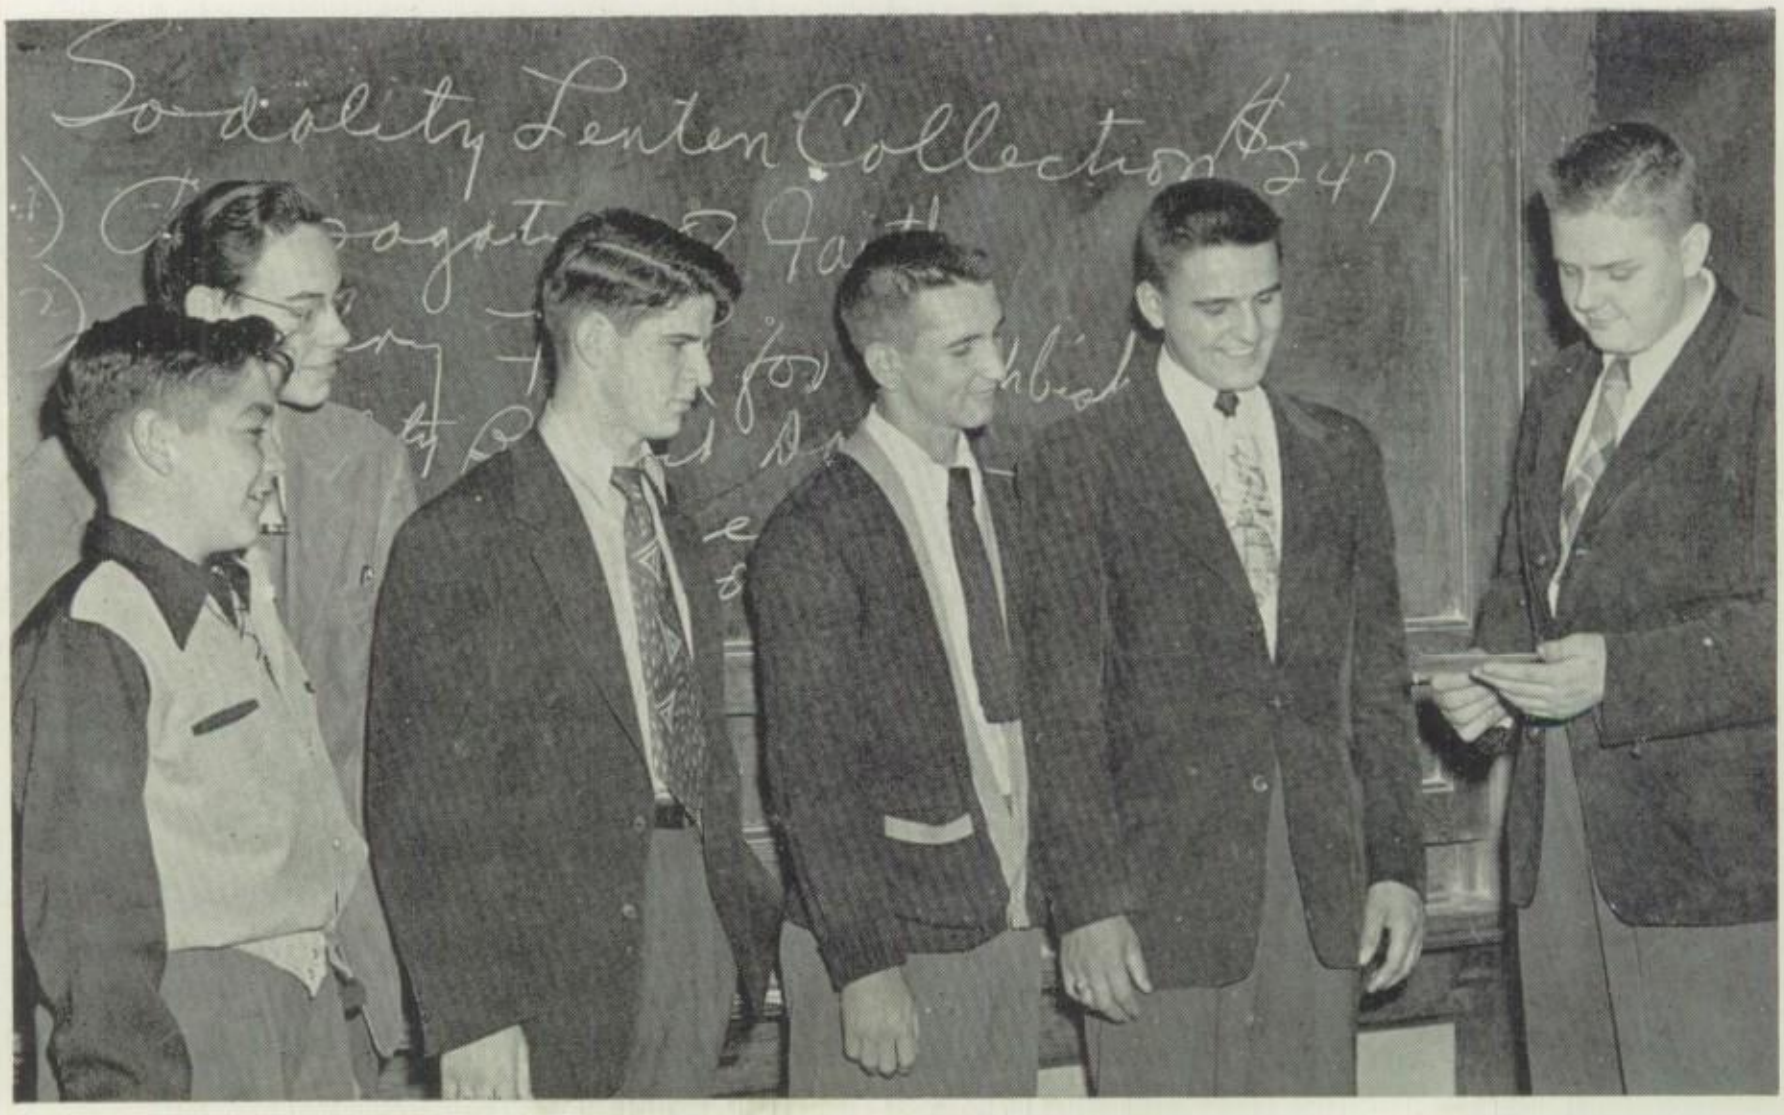
"No man is really happy or safe without a hobby" — Sir William Osler

Our Lady always accompanied us . . .

Devotion to Mary, Our Mother, through prayer and good works is the purpose of the Sodality of Our Lady. In fulfilling this aim the Sodality sponsored the annual dialogue Mass, Communion Sunday, socials, lenten and monthly collections for the home and foreign missions. Letters from Archbishop Cushing, the Society for the Propagation of the Faith and Catholic Missions in all parts of the world acknowledged the generosity of the Sodality in this holy work.

The Sodality is unique in having every student as a member. Thus with a one-hundred percent membership all its projects are very successful.

Men with a mission. Keymen of the Sodality were Senior Prefects McIntyre, Sasso and Moderator Brother Alexius Joseph.



Homeroom helpers. Executive members of the Sodality included Bobby Costa, Art Tracy, Ted O'Donnell, Ernie LeDuc, George Rogers and Bill Consavage who were the homeroom organizers.

Following the signs was easy . . .

Top two. The two best posters in the Catholic Press Contest were those of Jim Kane and Walter Pianka, who view their work above.

A very important contributing factor to the tremendous school spirit of Malden Catholic is the Poster Club. This club is an informal group whose members are a talented gang of pen and brush users who are all self-taught. They showed up on call to get their assignments for pep posters, or posters for a dance, play or contest. No matter what the task was they always came up with the snazziest signs — some in ink, others in water colors or paint. Each sign carried its message and fired the student body with enthusiasm for the occasion.

"The Ghost Train" was this year's play, which ran as scheduled through the snowiest and coldest two nights of the year. It had an expert crew who gave each full house audience smiles, laughs and roars, plus additional chills as they acted like veterans throughout the three acts with Arthur Bruno as the leading character.

More intrigue — upper right — Suspense is created by Pat Manning, Bob Bartlett, Dick Duffy and Charlie Coughlin.

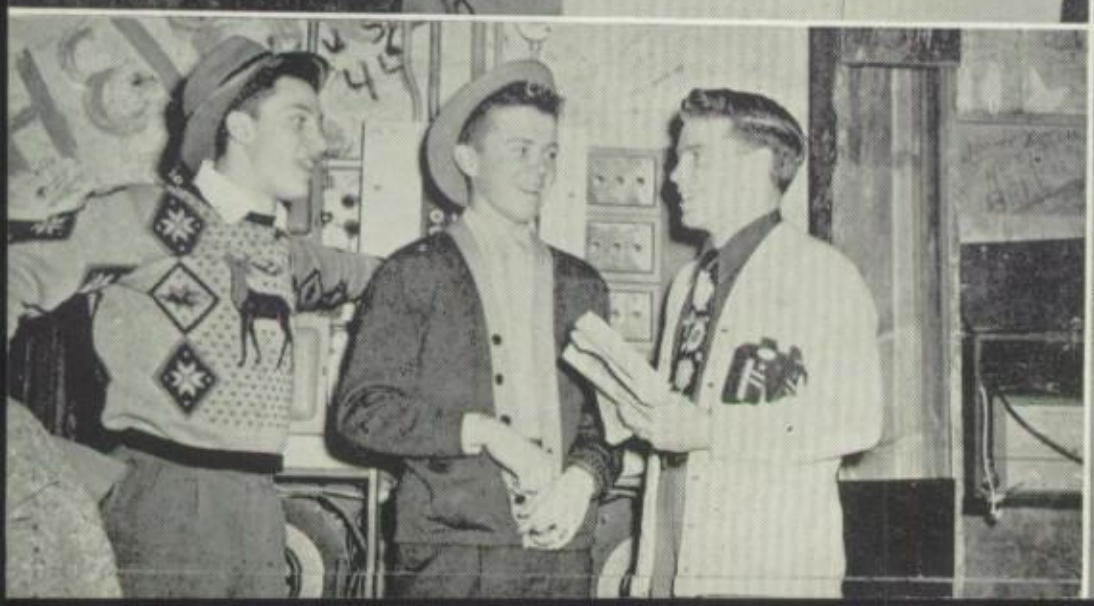
Expose — lower right — Hero Art Bruno (foreground) reveals the plot in the presence of Campbell, Meehan, Duffy, Cunningham, Manning and Donahue.

Prompt pair. Stage whispers came from Barbara Fair and Art Cestaro.

Lights out. Checking the lighting and curtain cues were J. Sasso, D. Walsh and R. Mallon.

Disc jockeys. Sound effects were under the control of B. Taracevicz, E. Norton and L. Malatesta.

Make-up work. Coughlin and McIntyre kabitzed while Misses McGonagle and McQuaid made up Bruno and Campbell.



Science made the way safe . . .

On the beam. Bob Bartlett and his alternate, Greg Lynch, demonstrate modulated light at the Archdiocesan Science Fair to Kate O'Brien and Sally Torpie.

On the lighter side. John Murphy thrills John Meehan, Bill Kelley, Pat Manning, Lois Kimball and Patricia Mulrennan with his lighting set-up at the science fair.

More light work. Alice Caffrey, Winnie Lyons and Mary Noonan were an interested trio as Art Bruno explained his demonstration in light.

Science Club activities were centered on the preparation of projects for three science fairs; viz, those of the School, Archdiocese and State. Bob Bartlett, John Murphy and Dick Calder were the school winners and automatically qualified for the Archdiocesan Fair, with their modulation of light, series-parallel lighting and telegraphic set, respectively. None of them scored in the Archdiocesan Fair, but Bartlett received an honorable mention award in the State. Greg Lynch was Bartlett's relief man in all fairs while Art Bruno and Walt Dolan pinch hit for Murphy.

Cameras recorded the trip . . .

Developing a good photographer is no easy job and it is even more difficult when the fixings are lacking. However, President Bill Gillooly carried on his weekly meetings in theory in such a good way that several members now have their own enlargers. With their summer earnings, more boys expect to purchase cameras that are capable of taking pix for the school newspaper and yearbook.

Bill Gillooly and Brother Evangelus hope that these boys are successful as they have been shouldering the photo load for the past two years.

Camera clickers. Bill Gillooly explains the difference between cut film and roll film to G. McCarthy, F. Guthrie, A. Tracy, J. Sullivan, L. Comeau, J. McCarthy, T. Doherty, J. Bowen, J. Richard, W. McAteer and A. Kajunski.

Along the way we talked . . .

Smooth Dick Mulrenan was the school's best orator, and almost the best in the Hearst, Legion and Red Feather contests as he placed second in these. Dick came into prominence by his competition in the yearly school contests.

Oratory is incorporated in the English classes to encourage purposeful talking, and then the best speakers are encouraged to continue in the oratorical club under the moderatorship of Brother Simeon.

Victory smiles. Top yak-yak men of the underclasses were Phil Conlin, Tom Maher and Fred Marker.

Ten talkers. Pleasing smiles and good personalities are part of the make-up of these orators. First row: P. Heaney, J. Trabuco, F. Marker, A. Tracy, T. Maher. Second row: F. Kane, W. Keats, W. Dolan, R. Clark, D. McMillan.

Honorable judges: A debating scene from the underclassmen's competition.

Missing the district championship of the Catholic League by one point was a hard blow for the debaters. Led by seniors Bob Kelleher and Dick Mulrenan the team was fairly strong even though Gerety and Lenihan were new at the art of debating. The team never did worse than split in any contest and the one point loss to Central Catholic made the difference.

Capable alternates Tom Conway, Bob Shea and John Lane gained valuable experience in their battle for a position on the team.

Word to the wise. Coach Brother Simeon checks off a few vital points to his group. First row: W. Gerety, R. Mulrenan, J. Linehan and R. Kelleher. Second row: R. Shea, T. Conway, and B. Lane.

Looking over a lay-out. Coming up with a nifty looking book was the job of Moderator Brother Evangelus and co-editors Bob Bartlett and Art Bruno.

Checking the copy. Associate editors Paul Fitzpatrick, Walter Dolan, Barry Eveleth and Richard Duffy planned the copy work.

But everyone agreed on a super

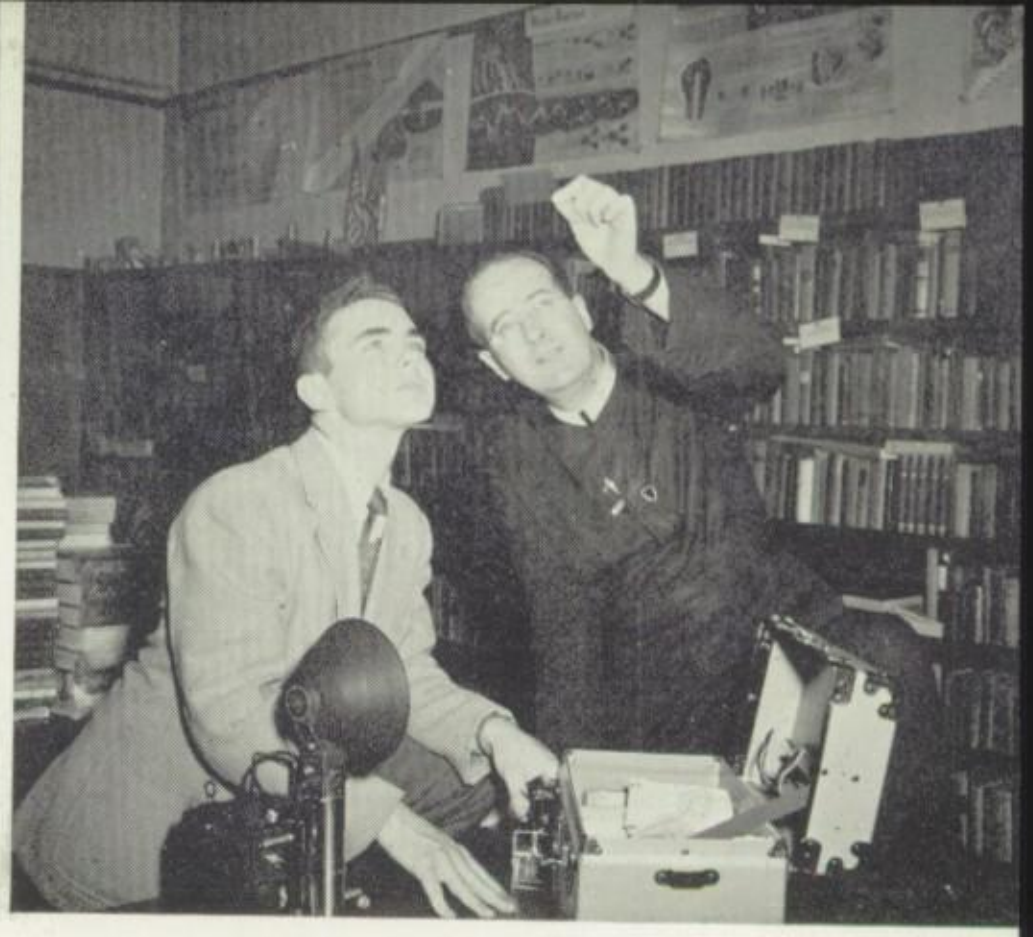
Publishing the 1951 Hi-Way was like solving a puzzle, but a lot more difficult as the senior class had but seventy-five members. Furthermore, the usual socials netted less than usual and the class was seven months behind in the payments. The Hi-Way was just about a thing of the past when the senior officers and Hi-Way staff injected plenty of spirit into the non-cooperators.

As in the past the aid of the juniors was solicited on the necessary one-hundred percent basis and they came through. The final hump was cleared when thirty underclassmen signed as subscribers.

Consultations with the printer and engraver followed and everyone agreed on this eighty page edition.

Selling school supplies. Dick Calder, Dick Mallon, Jim McIntyre and Jim Duffy ran the Campus Store for the benefit of the Hi-Way. Kevin Kiley is the recognizable customer.

Their work was a bit more exacting as they had to compute the number of words for each group and club.



Noting the good negatives. A year-round, day-in and day-out job was that of the pixmen Brother Evangelus and Bill Gillooly.

Doormen at the dances. Guarding against gatecrashers at the Hi-Way dances was the work of Eddie Norton, Ted O'Donnell, L. Vaughn, Charlie Doherty and Bill Small.

The Press logged our itinerary . . .

Editors Gregory Lynch and John Feeney guided the Hi-Lite safely through its eighth year of publication, which saw the paper win the Boston Globe's make-up award for the fifth straight year under the supervision of Brother Michael.

James McIntyre capably filled the post of sports editor with his complete accounts and team summaries. Arthur Bruno took good care of the news editor's chores, which sparkled with freshness and humor. The feature editor was Arthur Bruno and he always came up with interesting, behind-the-scenes accounts of the things that go into the success of any activity. One of Bruno's best reporters was Henry Cunningham, who contributed many lively columns. The news features were under the editorship of Bob Bartlett.

Tom Boudreau also contributed to the glory of the paper when he received an honorable mention certificate in the Boston Globe Contest for the best news story.

Periodically we slowed down to a waltz . . .

If a popularity poll were to be taken, the Hi-Liters would win with ease. The Hi-Liters are an eleven piece uniformed band plus a girl vocalist with Brother Servanus and Louis Vella as moderator and director, respectively.

Being students and lovers of popular music, these boys are accomplished musicians, and weekly practices as a unit made them a smooth playing combo at the school socials and other activities.

A special nod goes to Mary Kelleher and her golden voice and also to trumpeter Charlie Coughlin for his fine playing during the past four years.

The Varsity Club is composed of athletes who have been awarded varsity monograms. Their purpose is two-fold; viz., that of forming the bulk of the cheering section and the awarding of a permanent trophy to the most valuable athlete in both varsity and junior varsity sports.

Funds for the latter are raised by sponsoring an annual Talent Show in which the contestants must be from Malden Catholic.

Two qualifying shows, one restricted to the underclasses and the other open to all classes, are given at two assemblies. The six best from each group perform at the final show which is open to the public.

Restricted class. Kneeling: N. Lavigne, J. Walsh, A. Gallinaro, F. Lynch, S. Russell. Standing: P. Smith, J. Antell, R. Shea, R. Strovink, J. Bowen, W. Gillooly, V. Cavallo, J. McCarthy, M. Russell.

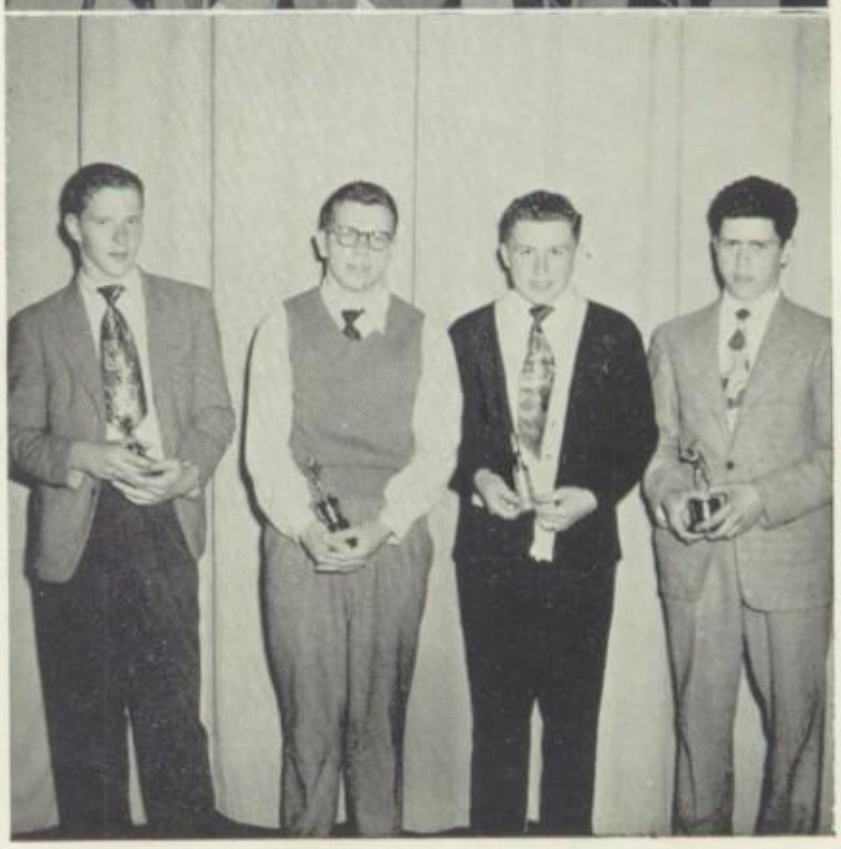
B. T. O.'s: Vice-president Norton, Treasurer Rucci, Secretary Hurley, President Sasso, J. McIntyre, C. Hallice, D. O' Brien, R. Gordon, C. Phillips, L. Malatesta, A. Pallotta.

Fall winners Ed Norton and Walter Cooper are congratulated by Joe Sasso on winning the varsity and junior varsity trophies in football.

Winter winners were J. Clark in varsity basketball, R. McKinnon in hockey, P. Sheedy in track and T. McMahon in J. V. basketball.

Top talent: Bob Strovink (left) was the final winner. Congratulating him are Antell and the Russell brothers.



Spring winners were T. McDermott in freshman baseball, R. Wilkins in track, E. McMellen in J. V. baseball and L. Dempsey in varsity baseball.

And cheered to spirited tunes.

For a school which doesn't schedule music in its regular program Malden Catholic provides another extra-curricular musical activity in Brother Evangelus' Vagabonds who are an informal pep band, some twenty in number under the student directorship of Charlie Coughlin.

Being an informal group they dress as they desire with emphasis on the group name of Vagabonds.

They present a colorful gathering as they march and play in their varied and ragged clothes.

However, their music is real marching music of excellent quality and they also entertain at intermission time with the latest popular hits.

More than one team claimed the stimulus for victory was due to the inspirational music of the Vagabonds, who were always at their best when the teams were behind.

Colorful characters. Front row: Director Charlie Coughlin, J. Gibbons, G. Murphy, R. Shea, L. Vella, J. Antell, V. Cavallo, F. Guthrie, J. Doherty-, T. Boudreau. Second row: J. Clark, A. Three's a crowd. Larry Vaughan, Larry Malatesta and Joe Jacobs had no room for landlubbers Betty Hayden, Alice Doohan and Jackie Griffin.

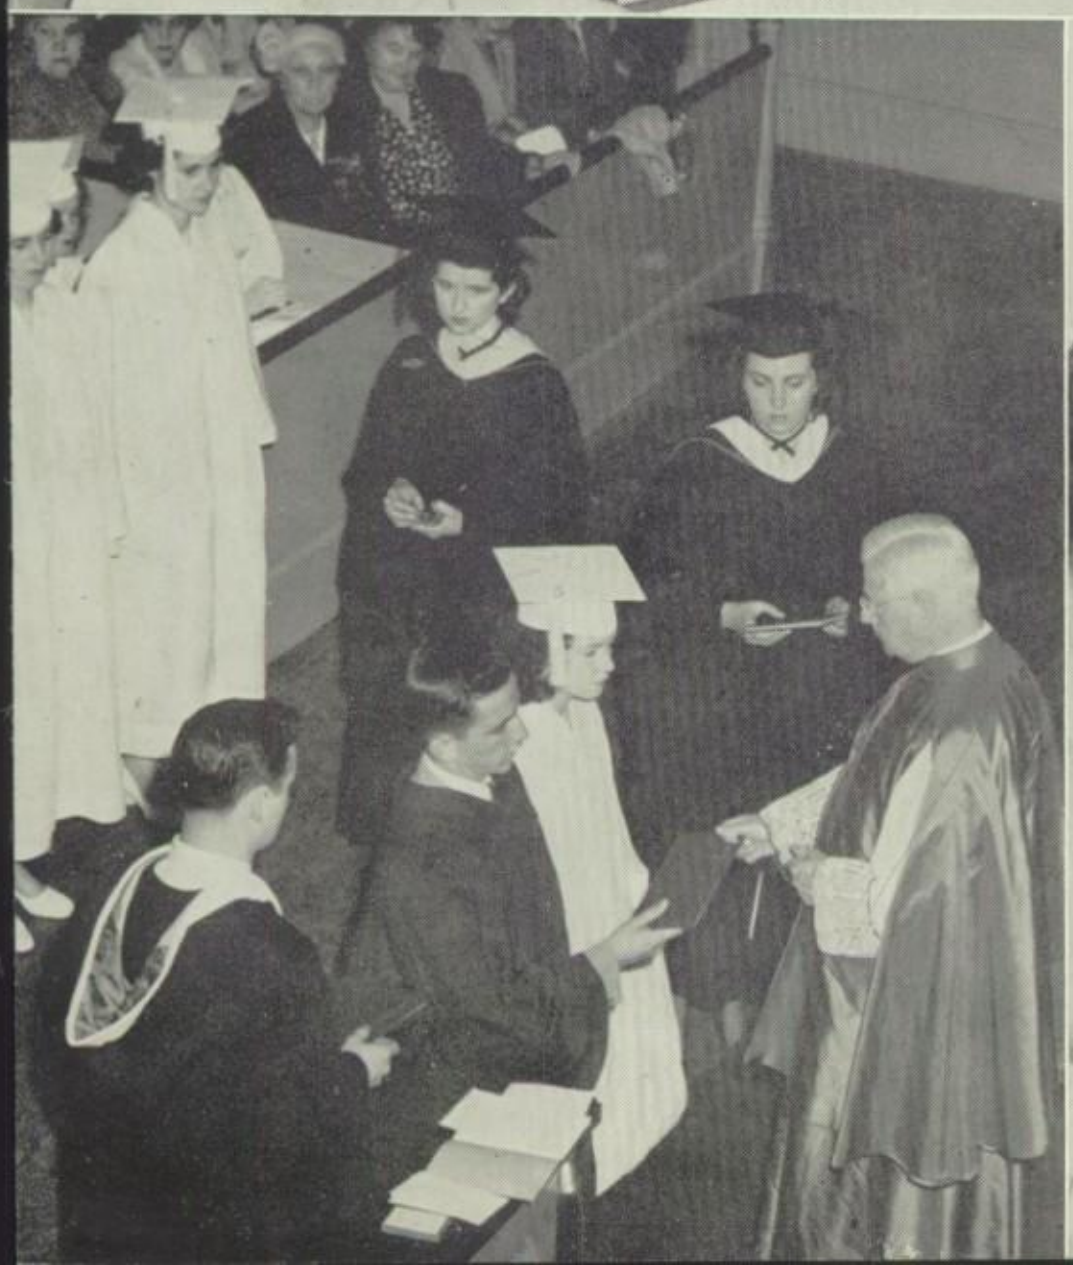
"It has been a savage enough pilgrimage" — David H. Lawrence

Commencement exercises on Sunday, June 3rd, at the Immaculate Conception Church completed the course. The photos below summarize the procession, the reception of the diplomas and the admiration of proud parents.



Acknowledgements

When a staff sits down to plan a yearbook, it immediately realizes its own incompetence and then begins to appreciate the importance of friends who are ever-willing to lend a helping hand.

The staff of 1951 had a host of sympathetic friends whose help and cooperation have made the editing of this book a pleasure and accordingly extends grateful thanks to:

Rt. Rev. John J. Fletcher — Pastor

Brother John Edward, C. F. X. — and the faculty of Malden Catholic.

Brother Hyacinth, C. F. X. for his lettering.

Sister Vitalia, S. S. N. D., and the Sisters of her community.

Columbia Scholastic Press Association, N. Y., N. Y.

Mr. James Bleiler and Mr. George Corrigan of Purdy Studios, Boston, Mass.

Mr. Frank Schmelzer and Mr. Jack Mullaney of Donovan and Sullivan Engraving Co., Boston, Mass.

Mr. Paul Delaney and Mr. Leon Delaney of Delaney Press, Melrose, Mass.
